About the Show:

The basic theme of these photographs was exploring how disabled men can be viewed and interpreted as objects of art. In trying to highlight a disabled man's creative mind and spark; a more painterly view was used. This is an attempt to explore the concept of beauty and meaning from the perspective of a disabled artist.

About the Artist

For the past five years he has been chronicling his own life as a disabled man, and that of other men with disabilities. Allan has photographed disabled man as people through a more painterly view of the subject. He tries to give you a more expanded and interpretive view of life.

The artist would like to thank Tangled Arts Mechanic Lab, The Ontario Arts Council and John Christmann: Show Gallery.
